SAINT OF THE WEEK*St. Josephine Bakhita*

St. Josephine Bakhita was born in Sudan. As a child, she was kidnapped by Arab slave traders and for the next 12 years she would be bought, sold and given away over a dozen times. She spent so much time in captivity that she forgot her original name. She was regularly abused and beaten, once even her masters cut patterns into her back with a knife and rubbed salt in her wounds. In 1883, she was sold to the Italian Vice Consul, Callisto Legani. He was a much kinder master and he did not beat her. She travelled to Italy with him, where she later lived with the Canossian Sisters and learnt about God. She was allowed by the courts to become a free woman and enter the convent. St. Josephine travelled around preparing others for missionary work in Africa. When speaking of her enslavement, she often professed she would thank her kidnappers, for she might never have come to know Jesus Christ and entered His Church.

St. Josephine Bakhita, pray for us!

Love “DOES NOT REJOICE IN WRONGDOING, BUT REJOICES IN THE TRUTH,”

When I was editor of The B.C. Catholic, I often got letters condemning the world's evils. Some of the writers used the most hateful language possible, clearly enjoying their own condemnation, actually seeming to rejoice in the evil.

There are many possible reasons. For example, we can rejoice in wrongdoing because, in condemning it, we build ourselves up as we put others down. This is what we do when we enjoy the fact that no one else can do the job as well as we can, or that so-and-so, with all his qualifications, has made a mistake.

For people who have the job of correcting what is wrong, the temptation can be constant: for teachers to rejoice in ignorance instead of knowledge; for lawyers, in altercation instead of agreement; for police officers, in crime instead of obedience to the law; for prison guards, in captivity instead of freedom; for doctors, in disease instead of health; for priests, in sin instead of holiness. Even tow truck drivers might rejoice in black ice or illegally parked cars!

Sometimes the temptation to rejoice in evil is even more subtle: we rejoice in what is wrong because, in condemning it, we show clearly that we are on God's side. The more violently we condemn it, the nearer we feel to God. We are especially caustic about the sins we are never tempted to commit, and much more understanding about our own.

We must always battle evil, but we must remember that “a man's anger does not fulfill God's justice.” We must fight like soldiers who have been called to repulse an enemy, who ask nothing more than to defeat him and then get back to the real business of living; not like mercenaries who rejoice in war, who make war their life's work, who would lose their occupation if war were eradicated.

Let us pray today for the grace to love all sinners while continuing to hate all sin, remembering to remove the beam in our own eyes before we tackle the splinters in others'.
