SAINT OF THE WEEK

Saint François de Laval

Born in France from a noble background in 1623, and trained and educated by the Jesuits. He was known as a man dedicated to prayer and works of charity, a man of great piety but also of unusually great competence in business matters. Because of these qualities, in 1658 he was appointed as apostolic vicar to New France and was then ordained a bishop. From the very beginning Laval was regarded as a devoted pastor, generous with the poor, whose life was marked by simplicity and poverty. In 1674, Bishop Laval successfully requested that the Holy See erect a separate diocese — the first in the New World north of Mexico - encompassing most of North America.

Vocations

How am I being called to feed the lambs of Jesus? Could it be as an ordained or consecrated person? If you think God is calling you to a religious vocation, contact Fr. Chris Lemieux at 416-968-0997, vocations@archtoronto.org

Strengthen Your Brethren

In today's reading, the Apostles stand before the Sanhedrin - before that institution which, having sentenced Jesus to death, could not tolerate that this same Jesus was now beginning to be active again through the Apostles' preaching. They could not tolerate that his saving power was once more making itself felt and that his Name was attracting people who believed in him as the promised Redeemer. They accused the Apostles "You want to make us responsible for that man's blood".

Peter, however, reacted to this accusation with a brief catechesis on the essence of Christian faith: "No, we do not want to make you responsible for his blood. The effect of the death and Resurrection of Jesus is quite different. God has exalted him as "Head and Saviour" of all, and of you, too, his People of Israel". And where will this "Head" lead us?

He leads us, St Peter tells us, to conversion - creates for us the leeway and opportunity to mend our ways and repent, begin again. And he offers us forgiveness for our sins: he introduces us into the proper relationship with God, hence, into the proper relationship of each individual with himself or herself and with others.

Peter's brief catechesis did not only apply to the Sanhedrin. It speaks to us all, for Jesus, the Risen One, is also alive today. And for all generations, for all men and women, he is the "Head" who shows us the way and the "Saviour" who straightens out our lives.

The two terms: "conversion" and "forgiveness of sins" are the key words of Peter's catechesis. In the course of history, the Lord has sent us models of conversion to whom we can look to find guidance. We could thus look at Peter himself to whom the Lord said at the Last Supper: "When you have turned again, strengthen your brethren"

~ Pope Benedict XVI, April 22, 2007
