CHILD DIGNITY IN THE DIGITAL WORLD

The digital world has changed the way we live and communicate. Even now, it is in some sense changing our very way of thinking and of being, and profoundly influencing the perception of our possibilities and our identity.

We know that minors are presently more than a quarter of the over 3 billion users of the internet; this means that over 800 million minors are navigating the internet. What do they find? And how are they regarded by those who exercise various kinds of influence over the net? The net has its dark side where evil finds ever new, effective and pervasive ways to act and to expand. The spread of printed pornography in the past was a relatively small phenomenon compared to the proliferation of pornography on the net. We must not underestimate the harm done to minors by these phenomena. The difficulty of countering them can lead us to be tempted to say: "Really, the situation is not so bad as all that..." But the progress of neurobiology, psychology and psychiatry have brought to light the profound impact of violent and sexual images on the impressionable minds of children, the psychological problems that emerge as they grow older, the dependent behaviours and situations, and genuine enslavement that result from a steady diet of provocative or violent images.

These problems will surely have a serious and life-long effect on today's children. But we can also underestimate or overlook the extent that they are also problems for adults. The spread of ever more extreme pornography and other improper uses of the net not only causes disorders, dependencies and grave harm among adults, but also has a real impact on the way we view love and relations between the sexes. We would be seriously deluding ourselves were we to think that a society where an abnormal consumption of internet sex is rampant among adults could be capable of effectively protecting minors.

In recent years the Church has come to acknowledge her own failures in providing for the protection of children: extremely grave facts have come to light, for which we have to accept our responsibility before God, before the victims and before public opinion. For this very reason, as a result of these painful experiences and the skills gained in the process of conversion and purification, the Church today feels especially bound to work strenuously and with foresight for the protection of minors and their dignity, not only within her own ranks, but in society as a whole and throughout the world.

~ Condensed from the address of his Holiness Pope Francis to the participants in the congress on "CHILD DIGNITY IN THE DIGITAL WORLD" Clementine Hall Friday, 6 Oct 2017

JESUS AND THE END TIMES: A Catholic View of the Last Days

The Catholic Church has very explicit teachings about the Tribulation, the Antichrist, the Second Coming, and the New Creation. In this detailed Bible study, Dr. Brant Pitre brings clarity and precision to the confusion that frequently surrounds the doctrine of the end time. Session 4: "The Life of the World to Come": The Last Judgment and the New Creation on Monday Oct 26 at 7 pm in the parish hall or Tuesday Oct 27 at 9 am upstairs.
